11 of my favorite puppy chew toys (that won't cost you the earth!)

With anything that you give your dog there is a risk that they may choke, however this is true even when you've bought them from the pet shop. So take care that you're only giving your dog suitable chew toys...

01. An old kitchen roll or egg box with a few small biscuits inside. To make it even harder, seal off the ends of the kitchen roll with duct tape. This will ensure that the game lasts a decent length of time!

02. Plastic milk bottle. Remove the plastic lid (your puppy may choke on the lid) and place a handful of little treats inside. Then give it to your puppy without a lid on. They won't stop until all the treats are safe inside their little belly!

---

03. A sock and ball. Simply put a dog's toy like a ball or a water bottle inside a long sock and tie a knot just above the ball.

04. Sticks or branch. Nature knows best. Remember whilst there is a risk of choking, in the wild puppies and dogs would naturally chew on twigs, sticks, and branches. If you give your puppy a piece of wood, just check that it's not treated and not the splintering type.

---

05. A pine cone with something like peanut butter or Marmite smeared in a couple of places to get your puppy's full attention.

06. Ice cubes. A flavoured ice cube or other frozen item such as an old sock or rope can become a real favorite especially in the summer.

07. An old linen kitchen towel for drying plates. Simply tie a knot in it and give it to your puppy. You'll be amazed how they love it as their little teeth sink into the material. Even better, wet it or freeze it.

08. Rope toys. A rope with lots of knots tied into it is so easy to make and you can design it to suit your dog. If you have a younger, smaller puppy create a pom-pom out of string which they can throw around.

---

09. Hard plastic. For bigger dogs a piece of hard piping such as the ones used for containing cables could be perfect. If it seems like your puppy is chewing through everything look for something really tough!

10. Natural leather. An old piece of leather that you no longer want such as an old belt or handbag can be such a winner. Natural products, especially ones that you have been in contact with you will be especially popular.

---

11. Garden hose pipe. A stretch of old garden hose pipe is easy to cut off and give to your dog. If you give them this lovely soft rubber to chew you will find there is no need for them to chew your real hose pipe! To make it even more interesting wedge a treat inside it or stuff it with some tasty peanut butter.
